

Reengineering Management Education

The disruptions occurring in the digital era are bringing about a paradigm shift in workplaces, and hence management education needs to be re-engineered to meet the challenges. This Conclave has been conceived in this context to think through on how industry and academia can get together to co-create and redefine management education in the digital era.

The participation in this conclave is by invitation only. We have carefully chosen the participants for this event to represent leadership in different industries. We are sure that this is an excellent opportunity for you to connect with some of the thought leaders from industry and academia to co-create the future of Management Education landscape in India.
